

Title: "Charlotte's Sister"

November 10, 2025

Greetings all,

A different kind of newsletter this week (another family health concern).

We wanted to let you know that Charlotte's sister had a stroke in her thalamus a couple of weeks ago. We were hoping for slow-but-steady recovery as happened with a similar stroke twelve years ago, but her condition is steadily deteriorating instead of improving. The medical team is now saying that there is essentially zero chance of recovery. Charlotte and I are traveling to Annapolis MD today so we can see her sister while she can still communicate.

We would appreciate prayers for safe travel, and especially prayers for the family.

Thanks and blessings,

Dr. Lehman/Karl
